WELFARE DEPARTMENT USES MEANS TO SAFEGUARD TAX MONEY

The Department of Public Welfare feels that the public is interested in knowing some of the safeguards it uses in disbursing tax money appropriated for assistance purposes.

The special concern of some of the public about improperly granted public assistance calls for explanation from the Welfare Department. A definition of what constitutes fraud and the action that will be taken by the Welfare Department in case fraud is suspected is important.

"Fraud is defined and the penalty is set out in the state statutes which authorize each public assistance program - Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, Aid to Dependent Children and Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled - as follows:

"Whoever obtains, or attempts, or aids, or abets any person to obtain by means of a willfully false statement or representation or by impersonation, or other fraudulent device:

"(1) Assistance to which he is not entitled, or

"(2) Assistance greater than that to which he is justly entitled, is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars ($500) or be imprisoned for not more than three months or be both so fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the court." (Laws of 1936, Ch. 175; 1940, Ch. 289).

The responsibility of the county welfare department is to report cases of suspected fraud to the Public Assistance Division of the State Office. If fraud is indicated the Public Assistance Division refers the case to the Division of Legal Services for investigation. If the Legal Division finds that evidence is sufficient to substantiate a decision that there is probable cause to believe that fraud exists, a report will be prepared, and on prescribed forms the findings will be mailed to the District and or County Attorney.

WELFARE DEPARTMENT USES MEANS TO SAFEGUARD TAX MONEY

The Department of Public Welfare feels that the public is interested in knowing some of the safeguards it uses in disbursing tax money appropriated for assistance purposes.

The special concern of some of the public about improperly granted public assistance calls for explanation from the Welfare Department. A definition of what constitutes fraud and the action that will be taken by the Welfare Department in case fraud is suspected is important.

"Fraud is defined and the penalty is set out in the state statutes which authorize each public assistance program - Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, Aid to Dependent Children and Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled - as follows:

"Whoever obtains, or attempts, or aids, or abets any person to obtain by means of a willfully false statement or representation or by impersonation, or other fraudulent device:

"(1) Assistance to which he is not entitled, or

"(2) Assistance greater than that to which he is justly entitled, is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars ($500) or be imprisoned for not more than three months or be both so fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the court." (Laws of 1936, Ch. 175; 1940, Ch. 289).

The responsibility of the county welfare department is to report cases of suspected fraud to the Public Assistance Division of the State Office. If fraud is indicated the Public Assistance Division refers the case to the Division of Legal Services for investigation. If the Legal Division finds that evidence is sufficient to substantiate a decision that there is probable cause to believe that fraud exists, a report will be prepared, and on prescribed forms the findings will be mailed to the District and or County Attorney.

Army National Guard's Mobilization Termed 'Most Successful' in History
WASHINGTON—Now that the period of the "Berlin Mobilization" is coming to an end, it was time to take a look at the active service men and women who were called to the colors. How effective were these National Guardsmen and Reservists, anyway? How long did it take them to become "combat-ready"? The answer from one high Pentagon source: "This was the most successful mobilization in the history of the United States." Thus states Major General Donald W. McGowan, Chief of the National Guard Bureau.

General McGowan is a man who ought to know. He has spent a lifetime in the National Guard and has been through three mobilizations himself. His accomplishments include leading an armored cavalry regiment through the Normandy invasion, commanding a Guard combat division, and guiding the entire 470,000-man Army and Air National Guard through the most crucial and fruitful years of its existence.

"To see how well the Guard did in this mobilization," General McGowan said recently, "you have only to look at the record of the two divisions that were called to active duty: the 32nd Infantry Division of Wisconsin and the 49th Armored Division of Texas." Here are the facts that bear out General McGowan's claim. Back in 1955, the 32nd and the 49th were among six National Guard divisions selected for a new high-priority program by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, then Army Chief of Staff. General Taylor called this his "Six-by-Six" plan because he required these six divisions to be combat-ready within six months after they were mobilized. All but forgotten by the general public, the plan is significant now by the contrast that it offers to the events of the past ten months.

Instead of taking six months, the 32nd and 49th were declared completely combat-ready in four months—and this included the two weeks it took them to get to camp and two weeks to leave at Christmas time. If the world situation had required it, they could have made it in three months.

It was a grueling experience, not soon to be forgotten by the members of these units. At Fort Polk, Louisiana, the 49th Armored was challenged in the dust and mud with rugged combat exercises requiring its tanks and men to maneuver and fire exactly as they would on the battlefield. At Fort Lewis, Washington, the 32nd was challenged in the tall pines and in the mountains, day and night, against a tough, clever aggressor who turned a routine tactical exercise into an infantryman's nightmare.

But all this seemed worthwhile when, immediately after being declared combat-ready, both divisions were assigned to the Army's Strategic Army Corps (STRAC), the first National Guard units ever to be assigned to this elite fighting force.

So impressive was the Guard's performance, in fact, that General James Van Fleet reported: "The quality of these units is far above any previous mobilization that took place in World War II or Korea." Are there any specific reasons for such a marked improvement in our citizen-soldiers? "Yes," says Gen. McGowan, "and the primary one is the six months training program which provides active duty basic training for every man prior service man we have. This has raised National Guard training to the same level across the board. Then, too, we avoided the mistakes of both World Wars of reorganizing Guard units after they were called to active duty. In 1959 we converted the Army Guard to the new Active Army structure and when the Berlin crisis came upon us, we were able to provide the Army with the type of units it really needed. All they had to do was finish their training. And finally, this was the first mobilization in modern history in which we were able to preserve the integrity of our units. In Korea, you will remember, many of our officers and NCOs were pulled out of their units to be overseas-bound active Army units. This helped the Army but it sure weakened the Guard units."

These are the facts of the Berlin Mobilization. But they do not tell the whole story. It remained for Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington to put the overall effect in words. "This is the first time," he said, "that a President has been able to use the military power represented by our citizen-soldiers to achieve a foreign policy objective."

An old adage, indeed, that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." The "kids" on the farm are models of youthful efficiency. But they go a-fishin' whenever they can. The business men, the housewives, the schoolchildren — they need their fishin' too! But there is another way in which the old adage is true: ALL WORKING and no PRAYING leaves man a dull soul! The God who created us never intended us to be able to get along without Him. Our hands may sow seed, but they can't make it grow. Our minds may work out problems, but they can't solve the world's chaos. All of our efficiency hasn't brought us lasting happiness or firm hope. But when we turn to our Christian faith, and seek its power through regular worship in our Churches — then we find the things we need and want most!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL — ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dr. Salk Coins A Word: Bionauts

"Super stars" of science will make up the research team of the Salk Institute for Biological Studies.

Dr. Jonas Salk, who will direct the Institute at San Diego, Calif., quite often draws analogies between sports and science.

He once said, modestly referring to his historic role in developing the polio vaccine, that it just happened to be in the right place to catch a long forward pass.

Today he might select another sport and say that the Institute faculty members are the Mickey Mantles of science—they can hit home runs from either side of the plate. Dr. Salk points out that in recruiting his Institute Fellows he searched for and found versatile scientists who have all been trained in a field other than that in which they are working today.

Varied Abilities

They possess more than one skill or field of knowledge. They are not limited to biology. Some of the 10 Fellows already appointed are equally at home in higher mathematics and physics, or history and literature.

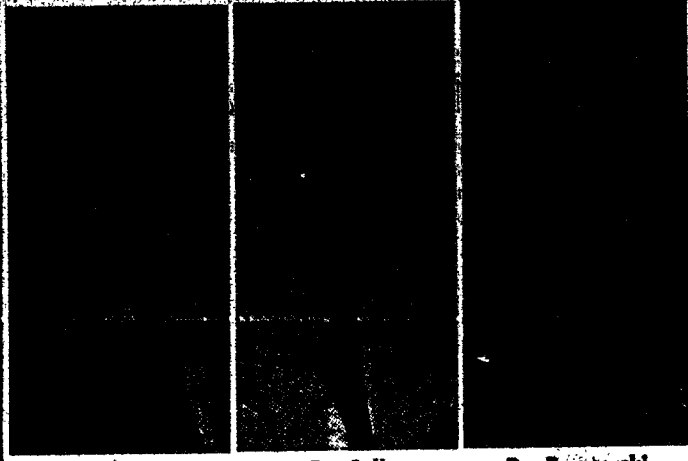

This unique combination of professional skills, versatility, imagination and intellectual curiosity has been described by many as the magic formula needed today to achieve the conquest of disease—from the common cold to cancer. They believe firmly that an assault on disease of the kind and magnitude planned by Dr. Salk and his colleagues could pave the way to revolutionary breakthroughs.

Just as the Mickey Mantles depend on the baseball fans who pay their way through the turnstiles, construction of the Salk Institute will depend on contributions from the general public.

$15 Million Goal

This summer all across the nation a campaign is in full swing to raise $15,000,000 to build and equip the Institute. The drive is sponsored by The National Foundation through the March of Dimes. It is a renewal of the partnership between all Americans and Dr. Salk—the man who did so much for them in developing the polio vaccine, and will do so much more as director of the Institute.

As another way of describing the scientists who will work at the Institute, Dr. Salk has coined the word "bionauts." "If we can speak of astronauts," he asks, "why can't we think of 'bionauts'—scientists who are capable of doing in biology what has now been done in the fields of space and of atomic physics?" He envisages the Salk Institute as a sort of launching pad for the gifted "bionauts" of the scientific world who will comprise his faculty.

The conditions under which the Salk Institute "bionauts" will pursue their studies are probably unique. The physical as well as the intellectual atmosphere of the Institute has been designed so that the individual scientist can concentrate fully on productive work and thought. Laboratory equipment will of course be the most modern. A highly specialized reference library on biology and related fields will be maintained. The whole environment is designed to spur the Institute Fellow toward daring and unhampered original thinking on how to reach the goal he is seeking—faster.

Pioneering Projects

In most great universities and other research centers scientists are obliged to invest a great deal of their time in teaching and in administrative detail. There will be none of these time-consuming duties for the faculty of the Salk Institute. Its members will spend all of their time on pioneering projects. Moreover, they will have complete freedom to launch whatever projects they elect and may change the direction of their research if they wish.

Experts familiar with the scientific world and its leaders agree that the 10 Fellows selected thus far are entering the stage of their most productive period. Their average age is 49 years but seven of the 10 are even younger.

Dr. Warren Weaver, vice president of the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation and a Salk Institute Nonresident Fellow who is often described as the "elder statesman of American medical research," is 67; but Dr. Melvin Cohn, a famed American biochemist now with the Pasteur Institute of Paris, and a Salk Institute Resident Fellow, is only 38.

A-Bomb Architect

Dr. Leo Szilard, long-time professor of biophysics at the University of Chicago and celebrated worldwide as one of the "architects of the atomic bomb," a Nonresident Fellow, is 63. But Dr. Edwin Lennox, an American microbiologist now also on leave at the Pasteur Institute, is a Resident Fellow, is only 41.

Dr. Jacob Bronowski, of London, a Resident Fellow who is well known in the United States for his books and lectures, is 54. His versatility is outstanding—in mathematics, philosophy and history.

Dr. Salk has remarked that the professional and cultural interests of the Fellows happily overlap. At a recent meeting of several of these scientists in New York City, they chatted with vivacity of organizing competing string quartets at the Salk Institute next year, of sailing and swimming in the Pacific, even of shooting a round of golf now and then. These "super stars" of science who may be expected soon to revolutionize biology and thus "help man make the most of his gift of life" are human beings, too.

MISSISSIPPI TAKES IN AGRICULTURAL PROGRESS IN LAST CENTURY

State College, Miss.—Mississippi has shared in a large way in the agricultural progress of the last century which is being reviewed this year during the Centennial of both U. S. Department of Agriculture and of the Land Grant Colleges and State Universities.

"Records are not available for Mississippi on farm goods produced in 1862, but the earliest figures compared to the latest show that much progress has been made," states Johnnie Sartor, Jr., associate agricultural economist of the Agricultural Extension Service.

In 1866 Mississippi harvested 1,668,000 acres of cotton, averaging 86 pounds of lint per acre for a total of 323,000 bales.

The state's cotton farmers produced five times this many bales in 1961, and on fewer acres.

Mississippi's 1961 cotton crop was grown on 1,580,000 acres, averaging 493 pounds of lint per acre for a total of 1,625,000 bales. This is 161,000 bales less than was produced the year that the largest number of acres was devoted to cotton, 1830 with 1,442,000 acres that averaged 169 pounds of lint per acre.

The state's 1866 corn crop was

It was moved by Supervisor NECAISE and duly seconded by Supervisor LAVINGHOUSE, that the following resolution be adopted:

The above and foregoing resolution having been submitted to the Board for its consideration and a vote taken therein, same was unanimously adopted.

500,000 acres harvested, averaging 8.8 bushels per acre for a total of 7,000,000 bushels. The 1961 yield of 39 bushels per acre meant 24,515,000 bushels from 610,000 acres. This is more than four and a half times more corn without a great increase in acreage.

The largest acreage of corn harvested in Mississippi was in 1921. This was 3,300,000 acres, averaging 16 bushels per acre for a total of 52,800,000 bushels.

Soybean production is a relatively new industry in Mississippi. From only 80,000 acres and 8 bushels per acre in 1924, it grew to 1,044,000 acres and 22.5 bushels per acre in 1961.

One of the state's greatest developments has been in cattle and calves.

On January 1, 1867 Mississippi had 530,000 head of cattle and calves at $11.20 each for a total of $5,930,000. Compare this with January 1, 1962 when there were 2,107,000 head averaging $104 each for a total of $219,128,000.

Mississippi ranked fifth in broiler production in 1961. This represented 135,683,000 birds compared to the production of 50,000 birds in 1935. The state's egg production increased from 66 eggs per hen per year in 1924 to 189 eggs in 1961.

The number of tractors on Mississippi farms increased from 5,542 in 1930 to 86,559 in 1959. An increase of more than three and one-half times in total cash receipts from crops and livestock products has occurred in less than four decades in Mississippi.

Compare these totals of 1961 with 1924 with 2507,532,000 in 1961.

Twelve percent of the cash receipts were from livestock and crops in 1924, compared with 41 percent in 1961.

These results were secured by the extensive use by farm families of research and education offered through the Land Grant colleges and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Key people in this area are the local county agents and home demonstration agents, others of the cooperative extension service. These agents represent the U. S. D. A., the Land colleges or university of their state and their county government," Mr. Sartor pointed out.

In the United States today, about the same number of farm workers as in 1862 are producing food for six times more people, 180,000,000 Americans now compared to less than 32,000,000 then.

In 1862 one farmer produced the food for himself and about four others. Today 100 years later, one farmer produces food for 26 people.

Science Backs Rice Growers Fight Costly Weed Problems

Infested Rice Chemically Treated Rice

Rice growers in this country long have been plagued by grass infestation which cuts back potential crop yields as much as 30 percent and more. Sometimes the crop is a total loss. This year rice farmers are fighting back with newly developed chemicals. One of these, trademarked Rogue, was applied to the heavily infested Beaumont, Tex., rice plot shown in this close-up at left. The chemical's effectiveness against grassy weeds is demonstrated at right. Two weeks after treatment, the rice is growing almost free of weed and grass competition.

Rogue is a post-emergent, contact herbicide which kills that portion of the grass or weed which it touches. The compound now is being marketed to rice growers in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas by its manufacturer, Monsanto Chemical Company.

Products such as Rogue promise important changes in the production practices of the billion dollar U.S. rice industry. Indications are that chemical weed control will make rice growing both more convenient and profitable. The result may be an increase in the industry's growth well beyond its annual five per cent rate of expansion.

As a result of the proven effective weed control offered by chemicals, scientists now are working at experiment stations throughout the rice-growing regions of the U.S. to explore improved cultural methods, e.g., these new herbicides may render obsolete the practice of early flooding of fields. This would permit earlier application of fertilizer at a time when plant food would be of optimum nutritional benefit to the crop.

STENNIS GIVES VIEWS ON OUTLAWING OF PUBLIC SCHOOL PRAYER

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Senator John Stennis warned that the U. S. Supreme Court decision outlawing public school prayer "tends credence" to future decisions that "go far beyond" this recent one.

Stennis testified on behalf of a proposed constitutional amendment which he introduced to allow voluntary public school prayer. Senator James Eastland is Chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Said Stennis, "I have a grave apprehension that the decision in this latest prayer case will shortly be followed by others which increasingly erode our spiritual heritage."

Stennis, one of the Senate's most respected constitutional lawyers, cited three other prayer cases which the U. S. Supreme Court will be called upon to decide in the near future. One of the three involves the voluntary use of the Lord's Prayer in public schools.

Stennis said America has thrived as a nation for 175 years, recognizing a Supreme Being by offering up prayer to Almighty God.

"Certainly it cannot be seriously contended," Stennis testified, "that the simple, non-denominational and non-compulsory prayer involved in the New York case resulted either in the establishment of a religious or prohibited the free exercise thereof."

The First Amendment to the U. S. Constitution prohibits Congress from making "any" law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

Stennis said the U. S. Supreme Court said as recently as 1951 that "We are a religious people whose institutions presuppose a Supreme Being."

Stennis said, "If future decisions of the Supreme Court are consistent with this recent controversial decision, I am convinced that future holdings will forbid and prohibit many of our traditional, respected and time-honored practices."

Among those which will almost certainly fall within the Court's ban are (1) The use of the Lord's Prayer and the reading of the Bible in public schools.

(2) The opening of the Senate and the House of Representatives with prayer by the chaplains.

(3) The opening of State Legislatures and City Councils with prayer.

(4) The administration of oaths to witnesses which includes the use of the Bible or the phrase, "So Help me God."

(5) Compulsory chapel services at the nation's military academies.

(6) Religious services at Federal prisons and hospitals.

(7) Issuance of religious proclamations by the President.

(8) Payment of GI Bill education.

CHEAPEST RATION NOT BEST ONE AT HOUS FEEDING TEST

STATE COLLEGE, MISS. — The hog ration which costs the least is not necessarily the most profitable one even though it meets all nutritional requirements. This has been demonstrated in a recent study by the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station.

By use of IBM computer, 24 growing-finishing rations were calculated. They met all nutrient requirements of the pigs — such as protein, vitamins, minerals and certain amino acids. Prices and nutrient composition of 50 feed stuffs were determined. These feedstuffs were combined so as to give the cheapest ration that theoretically meets the requirements of the animal.

Rations containing 16%, 14% and 12% protein were formulated. At each protein level, rations were calculated using two sets of restrictions and four different price situations. Three rations routinely used at the Experiment Station were also fed during the study.

Pigs receiving the regular rations grew significantly faster than those on least-cost rations and they were more efficient in utilizing the feed.

In most cases gains made by pigs on regular rations were less expensive than those made by pigs on the least-cost rations. Even though the least-cost rations were less expensive per pound of feed, the regular rations were much more efficiently and resulted in cheaper gains.

Results of this study have recently been published as part of the Animal Husbandry Department.

al benefits to church-affiliated schools.

(9) Federal aid for school lunches and buses in parochial schools.

(10) Government aid to church-affiliated hospitals.

(11) The use of chaplains in the armed forces.

(12) Tax exemptions for religious organizations.

(13) The requirement that the President, Members of Congress and Justices of the Supreme Court subscribe to an oath in which the aid of the Deity is invoked.

(14) Inscribing the words "In God We Trust" on our coins and currency.

(15) Singing of the National Anthem which proclaims our trust in God.

(16) Recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance which contains the words, "one nation, under God."

Stennis prescribed a definite course of action for Congress, "to correct the wrong which the Court has perpetrated."

He said, "A swelling chorus of protest by religiously inclined people from all corners of our great nation" has flooded Congress since the Court decision.

"It is naive to hope the Court will reverse itself, even though it will have the opportunity to do so in the other three cases which it will shortly decide."

"Therefore, I have introduced this proposed constitutional amendment, and I believe the people of the United States should have the opportunity of expressing their will upon this all-important question."

Stennis said the purpose of his amendment was not to "bring about any drastic change in our way of life or to introduce any new or novel political or social theory."

"I merely desire to insure that, regardless of the Court's decision, these accepted religious practices and traditions which have prevailed in this country since its founding are permitted to continue."

"For 175 years we have been completely successful in maintaining the separation of church and state, and at the same time we have continued our dedication to the spiritual heritage of the nation. We have grown in moral and material strength and wealth."

Finally, Stennis told the Judiciary Committee:

"Should this decision and those certain to follow be allowed to stand, then something great and good will have vanished from American life. A primary channel for the simple guidance and teaching of our youth in moral and spiritual values will have been blocked."

"Thus, generations to come will be deprived of much of our richest tradition and heritage, which go to sustain our freedom as well as our spiritual strength."

"We must not let this happen."

MISSISSIPPI VETERANS' FARM AND HOME BOARD LOAN LIMIT INCREASED

The Mississippi Veterans' Farm and Home Board loan limit for assisting eligible Mississippi veterans to purchase farms and homes has recently been increased from $7000 to $9000. According to Dr. S. K. Ward, Executive Director, there is no limit on the cost of a property to be financed by the Board, but the loan is limited to $9000.

Veterans who are eligible for the Veterans Administration's loan guaranty are required to use this guaranty in purchasing through the Board, and if guaranty is available down payments are reduced ranging from a minimum of five

(5) per cent of the Veterans Administration's appraised value.

Dr. Ward states that some of the World War II veterans' loan guaranty eligibility benefits already have expired, and others are subject to a formula which is to be applied in computing the terminal date for loan benefits for each veteran. Under the formula, each veteran has ten years of basic eligibility from the date of discharge or release from his last period of active duty—any part of which occurred during wartime military duty, but not to exceed the maximum date which is July 25, 1967.

Korean Veterans will have up to a maximum date of January 31, 1975, based on the same formula. Any service-connected disabled World War II or Korean Veteran will have eligibility up to the maximum terminal date applicable to the class of veterans involved. Eligible property, whether urban or rural, located in Mississippi can be considered by the Board for purchase. County service officers and county agriculture agents have been supplied with explanation and application forms. More detailed information about the program may be obtained by contacting the State office at P. O. Box 115, Jackson, Mississippi.

MISSISSIPPI BEES AND EUROPE

Trade between Mississippi and Europe is really buzzing. Awakening to the fresh new market for many farm and industrial goods in Mississippi, citizens of this state are going after foreign trade money.

This renewed interest in world commerce by Mississippi is to be commented and if the full potential of trade is reached it can become a magnificent economic blossom and a source of untold millions of dollars brought into the state.

And when we said trade between Mississippi and Europe was buzzing, we meant literally. Daniels Apiaries of Picayune has begun shipment of bees to Belgium. The first shipment left July 9 and the second, within the past few days. Shipments thus far contained 480,000 bees, packed in crates and fitted with food. The bees will be used by Belgium farmers as breeding stock for its growing honey industry.

Europeans are eager to buy Mississippi products. Efforts are being expanded to get world buyers and the sellers of Mississippi together.

"50,000 Mississippians Can't Be Wrong!"

—Says R. D. Morrow, of Brandon

"On the basis of their faith and credit, they want to invest

$16,000,000 IN A NEW INDUSTRY FOR SOUTHEAST MISSISSIPPI"

These more than 50,000 Mississippians, acting through their boards of directors of four Electric Power Associations, have borrowed $16,000,000 so they may build and operate a facility for the generation and transmission of electric power.

This is an extension of their faith in the future of Southeast Mississippi, Mr. Morrow said. It is also an expression of their determination to obtain an adequate source of electric power under reasonable terms and reasonable conditions.

More than 50,000 farms, homes, schools, churches and industries will receive their electricity through this new facility. They have previously been forced to purchase wholesale electric power from private interest companies, often at unreasonable rates and under grossly unjust conditions.

This new industry is not a "government" project. On the basis of their credit, these Mississippians have borrowed the money with which to build the new plant from the Rural Electrification Administration. This money will be repaid in full, with interest, at rates and under conditions as set forth by the Congress of the United States.

Although it will only affect the 50,000 owners of Southern Pine, Delta, Singing River and Pearl River Valley Electric Power Associations directly, it will indirectly affect every Mississippian who uses electricity. It will provide an adequate source of greatly needed electric power for industrial and agricultural development of a 25 county area. It will further provide an element of competition in the generation and transmission of electricity, which will assure all Mississippians of reasonable prices for electric power in the future.

No One Has The Same Telephone Number

Your telephone number is yours alone. No one else in the state, nation or world has the same telephone number as you.

This distinction is accomplished by a new "area code" plan in use throughout the U. S. and Canada and scheduled for the rest of the world in the near future. J. C. Dabney, Manager here for Southern Bell says.

A few years ago, according to Dabney, a new system was developed to give telephone users faster, and more modern service by enabling them to dial more of their own long distance calls. In order to provide this new service, however, telephone numbers could not be duplicated.

Since the maximum number of different telephone numbers using the 10-digit dial and seven-number telephone number is 8,000,000 (the world gained more telephones than this last year alone), some plan had to be devised to make each telephone number different. This was done by dividing the U. S. and Canada - and eventually the rest of the world - into areas. Each area then was assigned a code of three numerals.

Thus, the combination of an area code plus the telephone number makes each subscriber's number unique.

As an example, Dabney pointed out, the Bay St. Louis number, 467-9011, will not be used anywhere else in the state of Mississippi, because this state is all in one "area" - 601. However, 467-9011 might be used in hundreds of other cities throughout the U. S. But because the cities are in other "areas", the number is different in each case for long distance purposes.

The new directory recently delivered includes area code numbers for those areas that subscribers here will be able to dial on and after August 12, 1962 when Bay St. Louis will be able to dial their own long distance calls. Merely dial the digit one "1" and the distant telephone number. On calls within the state of Mississippi.

STENNIS URGES NATIONAL GUARD STRENGTH BE MAINTAINED

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Senator John Stennis said his efforts to maintain the National Guard at its present strength of 400,000 and the Army Reserve at its strength of 300,000 "won another major hurdle" in a Senate-House conference.

A conference between members of the Senate and House agreed to accept the Stennis amendment, which had earlier been approved by a Senate Subcommittee.

The Stennis action came after Administration leaders had advocated a reduction of the National Guard to 367,000 and the Army Reserve to 275,000.

Stennis warned that if the Administration proposed reduction should become law it would have reduced Guard and Reserve forces by 10 percent, and would have made certain the loss of 14 units throughout Mississippi.

Stennis, a ranking member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and a long-time champion of stronger Guard and Reserve forces, said his amendment includes language which requires not only that the strength levels be maintained but also that "in so far as is practicable any reorganization or realignment for the purpose of modernization, the number and geographical location of existing units will be maintained."

The measure still must meet final approval by the Senate and House.

Brother Angelo S. C. of Aloysius High School, New Orleans, visited Sunday with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Benigno and family. Also spending the weekend with the Benignos were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herbert and son Robert Jr., of New Orleans.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

O. O. SWORDS
County Agent

Ever wonder why a cow's milk production will vary from one year to another? Lots of dairymen do.

Research by the United States Department of Agriculture over a seven year period showed that the most important single item causing variation from year to year was the amount of energy of TDN (total digestible nutrients) consumed by the cow.

In other words, the amount of feed-pasture, hay, silage and grain actually eaten by the cow was the important thing.

Other management items found in the research, although not as important as the level of feed intake, included length and management of the dry period, season of calving, herd size and health of the individual animal.

For constant milk production, the dairy animal must be consistently well fed every day of the year.

During drouthy periods and periods of short grazing, supplement grazing with hay, green chop or silage until adequate supplemental pastures like Sudan, or millet are ready to graze.

FALL ARMYWORMS
Fall armyworms are out in force in the southern part of the state and could spread throughout the state. All of you know what a havoc of armyworms can do to supplemental grazing crops and pastures. They can literally strip a field of grazing.

You can control them. Keep close watch on your fields and when the worms show up, put poison for them. You can safely use Sevin this year even on dairy pastures. Check with your local county agent for specific details on how much to use and how to use it.

FALL GARDENING
August and September are the big months for fall gardening. Most August plantings will be made after the 15th. Here is a partial list of vegetables to plant.

Parsley, bush snap beans, Swiss chard, Chinese cabbage, tomato suckers, leaf lettuce, beets, mustard, turnips, rutabaga, tendergreens, field peas, kale. For that first planting of turnips, use shogoin. For later plantings, use purple tops.

In north Mississippi, August 1-10 is Irish potato planting time; Central Mississippi, August 10-20 and south Mississippi August 15-25.

Shriners Plan Childrens Burn Hospitals

TORONTO—A new philanthropic activity of the Shrine, the Shriners Institutes for Childrens Burns, gets wholehearted endorsement from Billy Roach, 8, Sullivan Mo., who can walk today following treatment in a Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children. He could not walk after his right leg was severely burned. He is shown reading the resolution calling for an expenditure of up to $10 million to set up the burn hospitals to Past Imperial Potentate Harvey A. Beffa, chairman of the fraternal group's 88th Imperial Council Session here. The planned institutes will care for and treat burned children, conduct research in burn treatment and in medical personnel in this field.
